Supernatural, Lucifer/Baldur, NC-17 AU ending of 5x19 but it's PWP so that doesn't matter.

Lucifer binds him with white sleeves and the torn remnants of his clothes. He gags the god with a long strip of torn silk and after a moment of indecision (faked or not Baldur will never know) Lucifer doesn't blindfold him as well.

It is just as well, as Baldur's shirt has only so much material in it.

Lucifer hovers over Baldur's chest, hands splayed out and pressed to the still-fading mark from where he killed him (Baldur can't stay dead, not after he found himself alive after his first death) and pressed to his shoulder.

"I would keep you," Lucifer says, and he slides his hands down as he kisses his mark. "I would have this stay."

Baldur strains against his binds as Lucifer cups his balls and runs his fingers over his tip, and Lucifer tsks before leaning down to bite at a nipple none-too-gently.

He's never known a pagan god before, and it still surprises him how Baldur arches into the lightest of touches as if he feels every sensation his body gives him. (Angels are muted, not much but enough that Lucifer has to touch longer, harder to get reactions.)

Lucifer wouldn't be surprised if this was common in pagan gods, and if this is true, he can begin to understand why Gabriel spent so much time among them.

But here he gives Baldur's cock a firm pump and is rewarded by how the god jerks and writhes, and Lucifer does it again, and again as he watches Baldur struggle beneath him.

Lucifer almost wants to remove the gag and hear everything, but no. No, that can come later.

For now, he brushes a hand through Baldur's hair and presses his fingers into his rapidly-fading mark and watches Baldur come with a silenced cry.

Lucifer leans in, removing the gag at last, and doesn't give Baldur a chance to speak before he kisses him, biting as he does so.

He is panting softly as he leans back, and Baldur is looking pointedly at Lucifer's pants.

"Unbind me," Baldur orders, and Lucifer laughs low and dark as he obeys.
